

There is still more Footprints of the sacred

As you walk around, you may see the white stone pillar that were introduced at No.38 (Saifukuji temple), No.45(Zenshoji temple), and No.53(Anyoin temple) standing on the side of the road.

The road (Yaguchi) from No.39 (Shinpukuji temple) to No.40 (Saizenin temple).

Hikonaridori (street) near No.44 (Koshoin temple) .

Looking at the surface of the stone pillar, letters such as 「八十八」 are engraved. These stone pillars are also one of the guideposts of 88 sacred sites, and can be confirmed in various parts of the city along the road with 88 sacred sites.

Do you feel romance when you realize that stone pillars that you normally pass by casually are actually telling the history?
